Process automation

In law and business, most work is part of a process – more than one task, more than one person, more than one organization, more than one day. And we want to know how the process is progressing.

In the fast-moving, distributed business world, traditional manual processes are often chaotic, inefficient, unmanaged, and costly to the business. Neota can help.

Neota Workflow enables organizations to manage tasks and complex processes that span teams, parties and time. Aligned to the Business Process Model & Notation (BPMN) standard, Neota Workflow orchestrates individual Neota applications, as well as external systems, in a logic-driven, data-aware end-to-end solution.

Expertise automation

Incorrect decisions through inconsistent application of expertise, as well as inefficient delivery of expertise, are costly to organizations. Neota can help.

Neota's expertise automation capabilities enable users to create intelligent web-based solutions that replicate the advice a subject matter expert would provide, in person or over the phone. The solutions guide users through a digital interview that gathers facts, applies reasoning to the information collected and produces custom, context-specific outputs.

Types of solutions include; online analysis and advice – substantive guidance as to law, regulations, policies and procedures; and intake and assessment – intelligent data collection, issue and risk analysis, case and claims evaluation.

Document automation

Manual creation and handling of documents is labor intensive and significantly slows approval and execution processes. Neota can help.

Neota goes above and beyond traditional document assembly products. Through the power of the platform, you can create a beautiful user experience, apply logic to capture information needed to populate and generate bespoke documents for your clients and/or business and automate negotiation and execution steps to deliver significant value for legal, risk and compliance teams.

Users can automate documents of any type, from NDAs to complex agreements, reports, advice-based documents and checklists.
